DETAILED ACTION

1. The amendment filed on December 26, 2006 is acknowledged.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the loading resistor must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ying et al (the US 6,650,294, of record) in view of Ying (the US patent No. 6,166,694).

Regarding claims 1 and 9, the Ying et al reference ('294) teaches in figure 4B an antenna arrangement for a portable communication device, comprising: a first antenna patch (420) configured to be-connected to a first feeding potential, and a second antenna patch (410) configured to be connected to a second feeding potential, the antenna patches (410,420) , comprising a variable capacitance feeding, wherein the first and second patches , are separated by a gap (445) and have lengths approximately equal to each other. The Ying et al reference ('294) also teaches in figure 4B a portable communication device comprising: a chassis having a microphone, a speaker opening and a keypad (col. 1, line 19, and col. 7, lines 10-18). The Ying et al reference ('294) fails to teach a loading resistor. However, the Ying reference ('694) teaches the use of a loading resistor to enhance the bandwidth of the antenna (see the abstract).

Since one of ordinary skill in the art would recognize the benefit of enhancing the bandwidth of the antenna, it would have been obvious to provide Ying et al ('294) with a loading resistor as taught by Ying ('694).

Regarding claim 2, wherein the gap (445) comprises dielectric or forming material (col. 8, lines 22-24, of Ying et al ('294)).

Regarding claim 3, wherein the dielectric material has a low dielectric constant (col. 8, line 24, of Ying ('294)).

Regarding claim 4, wherein the length of the gap (445) is between about 0.1 to about 0.3 % of a wavelength coming from/to a source (col. 10, line 44-col. 11, line 5 of Ying et al ('294)).

Regarding claim 5, wherein the second feeding potential is ground potential (figure 4B of Ying et al ('294)).

Regarding claim 6, wherein the antenna patches have lengths approaching a quarter wavelength at an operating frequency band (figure 4B).

Regarding claim 7, wherein the connection between the first feeding potential and the first antenna patch is screened (figure 4B).

Regarding claim 8, figure 4b shows a radio circuit 455 that is configured to connect the first antenna patch at an edge thereof the first feeding potential.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-9 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
